"THE STORY OF THE EGRET."

Supplemental charter & objects

1) To promote the conservation of biological diversity and the natural environment for the public benefit, in particular but not exclusively by:

- a) conserving wild birds and other wildlife, and the environment on which they depend;
- b) protecting, restoring and re-creating habitats.

And, in furtherance of that primary objective, to raise public understanding and awareness of, and to provide information on, such matters.

2) To advance education of the public in conservation of the natural environment.

In pursuing these Objects the Society shall:

a) undertake activities in Our United Kingdom, in the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man, the UK Overseas Territories and anywhere else in the world; and

b) by so doing seek to persuade the public not only that the beauty of birds and nature enriches the lives of many people but also that nature conservation is fundamental to a healthy environment upon which the survival of the human race depends

An aerial photograph of the Ouse Washes, a large area of green agricultural fields. A long, straight canal or drainage ditch runs diagonally from the top left towards the bottom right. To the left of this main channel, there are several smaller, irregular water-filled areas and ditches. The fields are divided into rectangular plots by thin white lines, likely fences or drainage boundaries. In the upper right, there is a small cluster of buildings, possibly a farm or a small village. The overall scene depicts a landscape managed for both agriculture and flood risk management.

Ouse Washes: nature conservation with flood-risk management?
